"America is open for business" announced US President Donald Trump at the World Economic Forum in Davos. "There has never been a better time to hire, to build, to invest, and to grow in the United States."

There has been much debate around US immigration policy—mostly aimed at curtailing illegal immigration. Looking past the headlines, the US still wants to do business with the rest of the world.

The rules are changing and legal immigration has become increasingly complex. Complex yes, but not impossible.

If you are looking to visit, live, work or start a business in America, this essential seminar will give you the practical information you need to move through the process quickly and smoothly. You will hear about what has changed under the current administration and other important considerations for business visits and working in America, including:

- Intracompany transferees and Treaty based visas
- Business owners and entrepreneurs looking to set up a US base
- Work authorisation and visas
- Increased scrutiny under Trump's Buy American Hire American
- How Brexit can benefit relationships with the US and doing business in the US
- Any questions you may have!
